MORTUARY RETURNS.

There were 71 deaths in Honolulu for the month of October, which is a high rate as compared with several previous years. As only one was from cholera, the epidemic is not chargeable with the excessive mortality. From 1891 to 1894 inclusive the deaths for October were respectively 49, 51, 52 and 50. By nationalities last month the deaths were 38 Hawaiians, 10 Chinese, 10 Portuguese, 4 Japanese, 3 British, 2 United States and 4 others. Twelve were unattended, which is comparatively few. The annual death rate per thousand was 39.43, and the Hawaiians' is appallingly above the general average, being 43.43. The Asiatics show a rate of 17.67 and other nationalities 28.50. Strange to say for this "sanitarium" climate, lung diseases carried off the lion's share, consumption being chargeable with seven lives and pneumonia, six, or a percentage of more than eighteen.

TOO PREVIOUS.

There is an impression in printing house circles that the Hawaiian Gazette Company has bitten off more than it can chew in importing two type-setting machines to cost five printers each. The trouble with newspapers here is that their expenditure for printing is out of proportion to their expenditure for writing. As a result writers are overworked to fill space, the whole available patronage of the islands not being sufficient to pay for more talent. If the Gazette Company filled its publications with original matter, there would be justification for enterprise in the line of increasing the quality of print. But as its daily paper is heavily padded, the question arises as to the benefit, either to publishers or patrons, of running out printers with machines. Times will tell. But conservative newspaper men think that the Gazette Company is too previous in introducing the expensive linotypes. There are very few printers here who are competent to work them, and as the Gazette publications are not marvels of accuracy now in rhetoric, they are apt to be worse when built with machine work.

Judge Cooper's resignation, in view of his taking the position of Minister of Foreign Affairs, bids fair to make a deadlock in judiciary affairs. He is the presiding judge for the jury term of the Circuit Court, in regular rotation, but it is more than doubtful if he will take his seat on Monday, excepting for the opening ceremonies. Judge Whiting is confined to his home with illness. There is a long calendar for the term, but litigants have the prospect of having their interests not ignored for the convenience of a government that has been boasted of as having at command all the brains and talent of the islands, but which it appears must now come to a dead stop unless the Judiciary is robbed of a good officer to fill a vacancy in the Executive.

HIGH SCHOOL DEDICATED.

President Dole made a happy speech, emphasizing the value of adverse circumstances in making character. It was the poor boys, who had to hustle for an education, who usually made the marks in the world. The luxury of wealth was an impediment to advancement in knowledge. Some girls had their heads full of parties, beans and novels. Children while attending school had no right to read novels. The President congratulated the pupils, their parents and teachers, and the Board of Education upon the progress of education in Honolulu. With the splendid accommodations for high school instruction the youth did not succeed they could not blame the Boards of Education or their teachers.

Mrs. B. F. Dillingham, one of the lady members of the Board of Education, gave a highly interesting address on "The Hill of Knowledge."

Inspector General Alatau T. Atkinson gave a short but meaty speech. He referred to the establishment of a high school in Honolulu as marking another milestone in the educational progress of Hawaii. Teaching in the Hawaiian language was now all but abolished. In his 26 years residence he had seen a marked advance in education throughout the group. A uniformity of system had been adopted. The personnel of the teaching force had been much improved. Twenty years ago there were but 7755 children in school; a year ago there were 11,347, and at the present moment he calculated we had over 12,000. Mr. Atkinson made a strong plea for having high school tuition made free like the common schools.

Principal Scott, in the course of closing remarks, invited the visitors to inspect the building from basement to cupola. They could go to the bottom and see what a fine place was there for the girls to play. And they could go to the top, where Parnassus was supposed to be, although he had never been there. They would find the grounds in as good condition as when the Board took possession. Perhaps their condition had even been improved. In a year from now he had no doubt they would find the grounds in as good a condition as they are today.

The school then sang a dedicatory hymn composed by Phillip H. Dodge, to music by Mrs. Tucker, who played accompaniment on the piano.

This closed the exercises and then the people swarmed upstairs and downstairs, making a regular crush in the narrow ways of the higher regions. There is a magnificent view from the platform surrounding the cupola, for which expressions of the keenest admiration were heard. The building was fully described in this paper a few weeks ago. It is palatial in construction. In the main rooms the ceilings are ornamented with low reliefs of the national coat-of-arms done in gold and colors.

There are now 60 pupils in the high school, and 100 in the grammar grade. In the primary departments, housed at the old Fort-street establishment, there is an attendance of 170 pupils.

Another New Road.

The road jury to consider the opening of the new road between the properties of W. O. Smith and Mrs. T. H. Hobron met yesterday afternoon and gave a hearing to about forty residents of the vicinity. At the conclusion of the arguments advanced by the interested parties the jury decided to recommend the construction of the new road, provided that it does not take in any portion of the Dayton property.

JUDICIARY JOTTINGS.

Judge Cooper's Resignation Anticipated—Congdon and Freeth Assign.

An amended declaration has been filed in James J. Byrne vs. Allen et al. and A. E. E. garnishee. This is the old suit of sub-contractors on the Oahu Railway extension against the contractor.

In Brown vs. Brown a stipulation has been filed that the decision may be rendered by Judge Cooper, after his resignation from the Bench, as of the time he was second Judge of the First Circuit. This is the first official cognizance of Judge Cooper's transfer from the Judiciary to the Executive. The paper is signed by Kinney and Ballou for plaintiffs and Hatch, C. Brown, Magoon and Humphreys for defendants.

In the matter of the bankruptcy proceedings against H. Congdon and G. D. Freeth, an order of the Marshal to release the property has been returned, endorsed with the statement that the property has been delivered to P. G. Camarinos, assignee.

Timely Topics

LAMPS AND LAMP SHADES
AND SOME OTHER THINGS.

This is the time of the year when the evenings gradually increase in length, especially on Saturdays and Sundays. Why the evenings should be longer on those two days than on any other is something no fellow has ever found out, but it is so. Such being the case the question of lighting up the household during the long evenings that are coming is one that cannot be ignored by the head of any household.

The question of economy must also be considered. Coal oil is advancing in price, and we read by the late dispatches that the Pennsylvania oil fields won't last much more than twenty years to come; also that the great Standard Oil Company is already looking around for new oil fields to supply the threatened deficit. Kerosene oil will always be obtainable at the figure Mr. Rockefeller puts on it, but as a matter of future economy the Honolulu householder should purchase his lamps with a view to procuring the greatest possible amount of light with the smallest consumption of oil. This can only be done by buying good lamps and good burners and good chimneys. The Hawaiian Hardware Company has them all.

By the last Australia we received and are now unpacking the finest assortment of lamps ever brought to this city, comprising as it does an extensive variety of bedroom, kitchen, boudoir, hall, dining and drawing room and reading lamps. These we have in glass and metal. Our assortment of hanging lamps and chandeliers of all kinds is simply immense and must be seen to be appreciated. In piano lamps we have something especially new.

To cover all these lamps we have some beautiful shades of the latest designs in paper and glass. When we say they are beautiful we mean it in the fullest sense of the word, as you will acknowledge when you see them.

We have also a display of pretty little Onyx tables, which are all the rage among fashionable people.

Our supply of Alaska refrigerators has been replenished and we are now prepared to furnish them in sizes to suit any household.

When It Comes

To Disinfectants we still have plenty, our stock has not been exhausted, and new arrivals are on hand.

DRY GOODS

In Honolulu there is always something that demands the attention of the fair sex. More especially is this true when good bargains are offered. In catering to the wants of the Honolulu ladies, the merchants must buy judiciously and select only the most artistic designs. Especially is this true of white dress goods. I received by the AUSTRALIA a new line of these goods that are very pretty. They must be seen, however, to be appreciated. I also received a fine line of Ladies' Shirt Waists and Corsets. Now that the Cholera is over and life, socially, has resumed its normal condition, the dry goods business must increase materially in the next month. Anticipating this demand I have laid in this fine stock of goods and they are now ready for your inspection, and can be purchased at a reasonable figure.
